

Evaluating a Colocation Provider

Checklist

When evaluating a colocation provider, it's vital to make sure they have the facilities, features, staff and attitude to service your business. As you research providers, use this checklist to ensure they meet your needs.

Before you discuss your specific colocation needs with the potential provider, ask a few general questions, including:

1. Have you been in business more than 5 years?
2. Are you the facility owner and not a reseller?
3. Are long-term references available?
4. Can we speak with members of the support staff?
5. Can you accommodate our future growth?
6. Can we extend our contract or lock in pricing?

The grid to the right provides technical information to help you decide which facility may be right for you.
